Leadership Naturally: Developing Authentic and Conscious Leadership in Nature

Leadership Naturally is a unique, nature-based program designed to foster authentic and conscious leadership by guiding participants through a journey of self-discovery, reflection, and empowerment. This program helps individuals uncover their unique leadership style by exploring their personality, values, and vision. Through immersive experiences in breathtaking natural settings, participants engage in powerful experiences that provide the foundation to develop their distinct brand of leadership. The Canadian Rockies offer an unparalleled backdrop for this transformational process, inspiring clarity, confidence, and connection.

For established teams, Leadership Naturally has a profound impact on strengthening corporate culture. The program enhances communication, deepens relationships, and fosters meaningful dialogue—key elements for building a cohesive and high-performing team. By stepping away from traditional office environments and engaging with nature, teams can develop a renewed sense of purpose, trust, and collaboration.

“Ronna’s approach was relaxed, engaging, professional and highly personable. She has a calming presence about her that is synchronous with the work and the forest. She is deeply connected and emanates this with her tone, her words, her questions, and her care for participants.”

– Ken Larson, The Champions Coach
